0009_002A

think nothing profile in qtz + slate clay & sands thickest in valley floor thousands of ~~[illegible]~~ evidence of pits depth to rock evidence of pits seismic? not monumental worn from heavy stopes to enlarge area

Round Hill 70-50 less weathered

Strike on Prince Rd 10-40 diffing E penetration of pot to ~~[illegible]~~ slate sands to clay (20-80% ? 25-75%) can be appreciated state of weathering, ease of excavation

In the Brunin qtz + slate near head of steep sided valley gives, non-funs in shaded bottom, three small diggings each one just big enough to bury the unwanted rocks littered about

Enough quartz to fill a fibreglass bag or two

Who did it? Old profile says Dad were always foraging about - but what did he actually do.
He would hardly tell his wife or daughters in those heyday of male chauvinism, and they have not looked him and his mates.

Were they silly or are we? They had no money to put where their mouth is but they put their backs. We maybe have substitute were money but wouldn't mix with someone else, and because the nearest motel road is all of 2 Km away the spot will not claim attention until the next geologist buffoon along and is grateful for a minute exposure