

In addition the entire sediment/basalt contact should be carefully reinvestigated. Sulphides may either be localised along the actual contact itself or within the sediments. Careful consideration of further geophysical work, to investigate this possibility, should be given (e.g. EM geophysics).

Approved
for W.R.H. Ramsay

14th October 1980