

No major targets, excepting the Lake Gairdner anomaly, remain to be tested. However, numerous secondary targets located by the regional aeromagnetic/radiometric survey and regional stream sediment surveys are being investigated further.