

SUMMARY

DIGHEM^{II} airborne electromagnetic/resistivity/magnetic surveys totalling 316 line-km were flown in the Queenstown area of Tasmania, during February 1982 for the Mount Lyell Mining and Railway Co. Ltd.

The geologic environment in the survey areas was generally resistive. Only one poorly defined EM anomaly was detected that may be due to a bedrock conductor.