

024

on 10 m centres from two ridge traverses bounding the bluff on either side of the creek (sample nos A6537 to A6569). Geochemical results indicate that the mineralisation does not persist across the creek. It is possible that this shear-hosted mineralisation represents leakage from a deep-seated massive sulphide source. This possibility should be checked with ground geophysics.